WILLIAM MOLASKY IS INDICTED WITH M. L. ANNENBERG

The conspiracy charge, the last count in the indictment, accuses the men of entering into fraudulent employment contracts so that they might be listed as executives of the Consensus Co., receiving large salaries that were deducted from the net taxable income of the firm. Actually, the men were not employed in executive capacities, the indictment recites, and the money ostensibly paid to them really was distributed as profits and dividends.

Company records, reflecting the alleged salary payments, were a "mere sham, device and pretext" to avoid the payment of taxes, the Government charged. A total of $526,-947.44 was paid out through these contracts in the years 1929 to 1936, it is further asserted.

In these years the company re-ported a net taxable income of $238.954.11, instead of $745.901.55the difference being the alleged salaries. The Government asserts that a tax of $108,405.92 should have been paid, instead of the $30,-522.39 actually received. The difference, plus a penalty of 50 per cent and interest at 6 per cent, ccounts for the total in the indictment.

The indictment was based, in the main, on investigations conducted by the Intelligence Unit of the Bueau of Internal Revenue, under the direction of Elmer L. Irey, its chief, and Arthur Madden, head of its Chicago office.

Penalties on conviction of the charges would be five years in prison and a fine of $10,000 on each of the first four counts, and two years' imprisonment and a $10,-000 fine on the fifth.

Molasky One of "Big Shots."

Molasky, whom the indictment reveals as one of the "big shots" n the Annenberg enterprises, only three weeks ago appealed a Gov-ernment claim for $82,357 in income and excess profits taxes, together with interest, assessed for 1935 against the Kansas City News Distributors, Inc., of which he was a trustee. He contended the Collecor of Internal Revenue had erred n assessing a deficiency judgment after the corporation had been dissolved under Missouri law in 1936. Owner of the Pierce Building News Service, Molasky controls the St. Louis outlet for the "Racing Form," published daily by Annenberg, in addition to his reputed inoperated by Paul (Beverly) Brown nd Clarence L (Gully) Owen, Democratic politicians, Pioneer News Service is part of Nationwide. It supplies bookmakers with racing information including morning odds and a running acount of each race at each track in operation.

Brown and Owen, active managers of the wire service, entered hat field in 1927 and gained a monopoly after a period of competi-tion with others. When their old service, known as the Empire News Service, was in the Buder Building, Seventh and Market streets, the loor above their offices was shattered by a dynamite bomb in 1931. few months later they changed the name to the Central News service and moved to the Mart Building where the Pioneer News Service now has offices. Soon after they moved there police found everal sticks of dynamite in the Indicted on Liquor Charges. Molasky also was associated with Brown and Owen in the wholesale liquor business. Brown-Owen Inc. Indictments against the company and each of them individually were ted by a Federal grand jury 1935 for conspiracy to violate the Federal liquor laws and shipping liquor into Arkansas, then a dry The charges were compr mised by the Department of Justice. The liquor company pleaded guilty of shipping liquor to a dry state and paid a $1000 fine. The individual defendants paid $1000 fines each also, in what is known as a quasi-penalty.

The compromise included the company's promise that it would uit the liquor business. However. strenuous efforts were made to obtain a wholesaler's permit from the Federal Alcohol Administration.

Efforts of State Senator Mike Cinney to obtain the license were insuccessful but at the Democratic National Convention in Philadel-phia in 1936, Senator Kinney and enator Joseph H. Brogan induced Mayor Dickmann to introuce them to President Roosevelt's political secretary, Marvin McIntyre, to discuss the permit. Mayor Dickmann later sent "the files in he case" and a personal note to

McIntyre. Then Brown-Owen, Inc., was "sold" to Irving Schmuckler, East Side manager, for $85,000. Schmuck-ler, who had lost his home 10 weeks before through foreclosure, gave $65,000 in notes and $20,000 borrowed from Molasky's wife. Setting up the Irving Liquor Distributing Co. in East St. Louis, he obtained a permit for this company from the Last Dec. 30, Molasky was indicted by a St. Louis County grand ury for distributing obscene literature, a felony, after one of his trucks had been searched at the request of the Rev. Mary Ellis, vice crusader.

The organizing convention, said Allen, a former member of the Silver Shirts, was attended by Herman Schwinn, leader, and Arno Risse, assistant leader of the West Coast district of the German-American Bund; Kenneth Alexander, Silver Shirt leader in Southern California; Charles Hudson of Omaha, Neb., publisher of America In Danger; and William Kullgren of California, editor of the Beacon Light.

The Silver Shirt meetings were abandoned, Allen said, after a congressional committee, headed by Representative McCormack (Dem.), Massachusetts, made an investigation in Los Angeles. The witness explained that he then took an ac tive part in the formation of the American White Guard.

This organization, headed by an army reserve officer who since has died, also lasted only a few months. Pelley Praised Hitler's Stand. Allen denied ever hearing Pelley, as head of the Silver Shirts, say anything in support of the Nazi form of government. He said, however, that Pelley had praised the efforts of Hitler to "rid the German Government of Jews."

At the afternoon session, Allen testified he was designated by George Deatherage of St. Albans, W. Va., to get in contact with West coast organizations, "especially the Associated Farmers," in a program "against our real enemy, the Jew ehind Communism." He said the plan was for him to attend meetings of the various organizations. He doctors the ills of MISSOURI TELEPHONES

EACH MORNING this trouble-shooter climbs into his blue-gray truck and goes about his job of doctoring the ills of Missouri telephones. He knows Old Man Trouble well . . . they've seen a lot of each other.

Your telephone trouble-shooter doesn't come to see you very often . . . your telephone is "well" most of the time. There's trouble on the average telephone in Missouri only once in 27 months.

But when something does go wrong, the troubleshooter is on the job to fix your telephone as quickly as possible. Only rarely are telephone troubles not "cleared" the same day they are reported.

Clearing telephone trouble, quickly and efficiently, is a part of this company's job of furnishing fast, accurate, and dependable telephone service at low cost to you.

Mead has been in and out of the Detroit News, and the friend with the $250 went next door to a handbook, where he lost every cent of it!

Mead couldn't dig up $250 more and so missed the opportunity to get a hold on a three-time world champion in the making for a paltry sum.

He kept an eye on Armstrong, however, and when he saw that Henry really had merit, he again sought his contract, then valued at ten grand. He persuaded Al Joison to lend him $10,000 to buy Armstrong from One Shot Ross.

The peroration of Chamberlain's speech in the House of Commons on July 31 showed that he has not abandoned the policy of appeasement. Bad feeling between nations, he said, "was fomented daily by poisonous propaganda in the press and by other means." He could not help feeling that "if only this war of words could be halted and if, in addition, some action could be taken which would tend to restore the confidence of the people in the peaceful intentions of all the states of Europe, there was no question that could not be solved by peaceful discussion."

Unfortunately, not all the states of Europe have peaceful intentions, and the question at issue cannot be solved by peaceful discussion, since it is simply whether or not Germany is to be allowed to expand territorially at the expense of other countries. I do not say that there is going to be a

L EARNING to read is the most important single accomplishment in the early formal education of the child. Since every other kind of "book learning" de-pends on this, it is a source of great concern to parents and teachers when a pupil lags behind in reading.

With the opening of school in prospect, many anxious thoughts in many homes are directed to-wards a delinquent of this kind in the household.

It will be encouraging to learn that reliable studies made in a large child guidance clinic indicate that the old concept-that the child who is slow in learning to read is lacking in intelligence

In the early grades in school work most of the failures in pronotion were due to failure in reading-99 per cent of pupils in Grade I; 90 per cent in Grade II, and 68 per cent in Grade III were so clas-

In a study of such pupils, the fundamental causes of failure were eliminated—eye defects and ear deects had been corrected. The intelligence quotient of this group was satisfactory, but of an entire group of Grade I, II and III pupils ho could not read, the number of low intelligence-quotient cases was very small.

So, starting with intelligent puthis was what was found:

A frequent and fundamental difficulty was that the children came from foreign homes where no English was spoken. One child never learned to speak English until he started school.

Reading, like speech, is born of necessity. Many of these children The advisability of parents' reading to children, without demanding an equal amount of reading on the part of children, is questioned. Even more dangerous is the presence of an aggressive older brother or sister in the house who snatches away the newspaper or book and it never bothered him. When the One look—a second—some pages his idolized Beethoven's music and assistant leadership of the Royal turned over excitedly and Herbeck went into extreme agitation and Chapel was iven to a rival, Franz knew that he had unearthed one weeping. By November 11 he had

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

THE car was a new toy and Herr Wiedermann was proud of its flexibility and speed. Once free of the sporadic streets there was little traffic to impede him. He overtook the lumbering busses plying under the trees between the exotic little colonies of wooden, fretworked, balconied, spired and turreted Russian houses along the narrow strip of land between the Baltic waters of the Gulf of Riga and the winding fresh water River Lielupe.

He had dissuaded Marian from telephoning first to Mme. Lonska. "It does not matter if she is not in," he explained. "This is the right day for a drive to the beach-it is so blue and beautiful."

They passed through the main streets of quaint primitive villages, whose tiny inefficient shops presumably served the picturesque evenues of houses almost buried mong the forest trees. Marian was astounded by the beauty and charm of the houses and gardens of Dzintaru. wealthy Russian summer colony in the old days that are gone." slowed down to let her look at the fantastic wooden architecture, the lacy trees with the soft silver light through them, the first bright colors of spring in the luscious gar-dens. He read the name on the gate of a house which appeared to have been built in a right angle in order not to sacrifice the trees-"this means the Forest House."

"Then this is our destination-Mme. Lonska's home."

The lady was in, and giving the instant impression that nothing ever caught her unawares or surprised her, she was delighted to

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Gruenwald, in a cate in Vienna, hear a radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian, has been staying in Franz's home, studying voice. Franz fears for his foster father, Prof. Josef von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife. Gisela, and son Johann, who has the mind of a child. Leopoldine, a pro-Nazi woman surgeon, in love with Franz, warns him to send the American girl home. Her brother, Karl, is a Storm Trooper. Von Plasy is taken off to jail to die from shock. In order to take Gisela's money out of the country to deliver to her friend, Emil Wiedermann, in Riga, Marian invests it in rare stamps. Herr Speyer, the stamp merchant, guesses her purpose, but is sympathetic and asks her to deliver a picture to a friend of his in Riga, a Mme. Lonska. Marian leaves without telling Franz her purpose. Franz loses his job. When Leopoldine secures one for him he accepts it for the sake of his dependents. Marian learns Herr Wiedermann is in love with Gisela and wants arrange for her and Johann to come to Riga. SYNOPSIS:

You'll Be Thrilled By These New Washing Advantages Not Even the Finest Soap Flakes Can Offer!

NOTHING new under the sun? Lady-here's a fine-fabric suds so new and different, it's protected against duplication by U. S. Patents!

Women now find that washing stockings in Dreft after each wearing saves them a sizable percentage on their yearly hosiery bills! And one washing in this miraculous new suds will convince you it offers advantages not even the finest soap flakes can give!

1. AMAZING COLOR FRESHNESS because it never leaves cloudy, dulling scum—even in bardest water—and even removes scum left by previous washings! 2. Cuts DANGER OF WASH-FADING because its suds are non-alkaline . . . bence cannot cause "color-bleeding" of modern dyed silk and synthetic fabrics! 3. TAMES THE HARDEST "SUDS-KILLING" WATER because it flashes instantly into five times more suds than any soap you ever used!

Thus Dreft-washing every night acts in two ways to save you dollars a year on hosiery bills! First, by cutting down on expensive runs and definitely prolonging stocking life. Second, by keeping your stockings from getting that cottony, dowdy look that makes them "unwearable" before they're actually worn out! Ask your dealer today for patented new Dreft! Procter & Gamble.
